WORLD SURVEY OF ISLAMIC MANUSCRIPTS
Volume IV
The World Survey of Islamic Manuscripts is a collective bibliographical work, which brings together the work of Muslim and non-Muslim manuscript scholars from all corners of the world. It is a rich collaboration to enhance the knowledge of the written heritage of the Islamic civilization.

The Al-Furqan Survey fills the gaps left by previous bibliographies to bring together and update most of the information they contain. The Survey aims to provide the reader with a guide to collections of Islamic manuscripts, details of access to these collections and their holdings, as well as information about particularly significant manuscripts which they contain.

The Al-Furqan Survey is the first ever attempt to account for all collections in all Islamic languages in 106 countries of the world. It thereby fills a lacuna for collections not as yet catalogued and even for many catalogued collections where the work has remained incomplete.

Cover photograph: a folio from "Bustan al-batākhīf Fīnd Yâ'la'ith qī al-Shahr wa al-Rūh" by 'Abd al-Rahmân ibn Mâshâdhâr al-Mâshâdhâr al-Musânafi. The manuscript is dated 1046 AH and was written in Makki, a mixture of Nashî and Naskh script on yellowish-tan colored oriental paper. The scribe used black ink in writing the text and red ink in writing some important phrases, words and full stops at the end of paragraphs. He wrote the text inside a gold and black double border.
